

Loveliest Mother' On Fly to Hollywood

Lucky 'Mom' to Fly To Meet the Stars

Contest Launched by Edmonton Bulletin and Capitol Theatre

The loveliest mother who reads The Edmonton Bulletin will fly to Hollywood to meet and mingle with the stars on a full week's Cinderella holiday.

She may not be beautiful. She may not be pretty. But she is lovely. She may have freckles; she may have grey hair—but she's still lovely.

The Bulletin, in conjunction with the Capitol Theatre and the RKO movie "I Remember Mama," today launches a contest to find her—the loveliest mother.

There are $200 in cash prizes, too, for the runners-up. Second prize winner will be awarded $100 cash. Third and fourth place winners will each be given $50 cash.

And for 25 other mothers there will be consolation prizes of an admission ticket each to see "I Remember Mama" at the Capitol.

She'll Watch Movie-Making

Lavish arrangements are already being made in Hollywood by RKO Studios to welcome the lucky mother and to show her Hollywood from the backlot at RKO to a select table in the Brown Derby where the stars dine and wine.

The studios will send cars to her hotel and she'll be whisked through famous Hollywood streets to the great picture lots, past the studio police on the entrance gate and right into the world of make-believe.

She will be taken on the sets, where pictures are in the making and she will be free to stand and watch as renowned directors put actors and actresses, whom she has seen so many times on the screen, through rehearsals.

And then when rehearsals are finished and the directors bark, "Lights! Camera! Action!" she, along with a hushed group of technicians, make-up experts, assistant directors, wardrobe mistresses, will watch as the sound boom moves into position and the noiseless cameras trolley across the stage floor, following the stars. And she'll watch as the stars speak and act their lines.

Between takes she will be escorted to the stars' dressing-rooms on the set for a friendly chat and to pose for her picture with them.

She will be let in on the inside of the whole fascinating process of movie-making.

She'll See Radio Stars, Too

If she wishes, it may be arranged for her to visit one of the studios' famous make-up artists to have her hair restyled or her face made up by an outstanding expert.

She will be shown some of the famous night-and-day spots—where the Hollywood stars gather to see and be seen.

She will be taken to NBC radio studios in Hollywood, source of many of NBC's top coast-to-coast broadcasts to witness a big-time radio show.

All this—and more—packed into five days in Hollywood and two days of travel.

Two other cases reported in the province boosted the provincial toll of the disease to 39 cases.

They are a one-year-old Calgary boy, and a man of 29 from Medicine Hat.

Commission On Highway Proposed

Independent Body Urged by Minister To Select Route

Independent commission to select a Trans-Canada Highway route should be set up without "undue delay," Resources Minister Hon. James A. MacKinnon said here today.

The federal cabinet minister said he wished to "clarify" the impression left by a recent Ottawa dispatch quoting him as saying "undue delay" before the nation will have a Trans-Canada highway.

"I am highly in favor of organizing an independent commission to study and select the Trans-Canada route and I believe the setting up of this commission will proceed without undue delay," he explained, adding that it is obvious, however, that it will take years before such a highway system is fully completed.

Once the commission is organized it could "proceed immediately" with its work, he was further explained.

The minister said that although a highway would have as one of its main purposes the attraction of United States tourists it "need not necessarily run adjacent to the international boundary." There could be feeder roads connecting with a highway further to the north, he said.

SYDNEY, N.S., Aug. 12.—(CP)—A Trans-Canada Air Lines stewardess calmly led 13 terrified passengers to safety early today from a flaming four-engined North Star aircraft.

The five other crew members also escaped injury when the big trans-oceanic plane burst into flames after touching down at the nearby Reserve airport at 12:45 a.m. Edmonton time.

The plane, on a regular passenger flight from Montreal to Prestwick, Scotland, struck a hangar on earth at the end of the runway as it landed for an intermediate stop.

Aerial Search Is Called Off

Actual air search for V. B. Murray, missing on a flight from Edmonton to Grande Prairie since early Saturday afternoon has been temporarily abandoned by the RCAF, officials said today.

An area of close to 150,000 square miles where it was believed the missing plane from Washington, D.C. may have been forced down has been covered by a three-day hunt by air force craft from here.

Searching efforts Wednesday afternoon were hampered by wet conditions.

Communications are being maintained with all aircraft flying over the area and any clues will be investigated immediately.

Meanwhile second big RCAF search in less than a week is being carried out near Belfast, Ireland, on the Arctic coast after another missing Cessna, 40.

Part of the craft missing in the far north was identified today as Bud Heimanick.

RCAF dispatches here said there was at least one passenger with Heimanick and it was a possibility he may have been accompanied by "his wife."

The known passenger is Miss Olenburg of the University of Michigan.

RCAF dispatched photo-reconnaissance planes, mapping the North West Territories to aid in the search. Two long range reconnaissance planes from 16th Reconnaissance Group are proceeding to the area and Eric Hoffa, Canadian Pacific Airlines pilot is continuing his search.

The missing plane left Kelly Lake, about 300 miles southwest of Edmonton Tuesday and has been unreported ever since.

Need For Justice Stressed by Mitchell

World peace and prosperity cannot be lasting unless based on justice.

This was stated by Angus S. Mitchell, Melbourne, Australia, president of Rotary International, who spoke to Rotarians at the Macdonald hotel Wednesday night.

Head of 300,000 international Rotarians in 80 geographical regions throughout the world, Mr. Mitchell visited Edmonton as part of a global tour of Rotary clubs.

It was the first time in 19 years that an international president addressed Edmonton Rotarians.

Speaking forcefully and quietly, an audience of nearly 200 Northern Alberta Rotarians, Mr. Mitchell warned that "no nation can afford to abandon the task of world peace today."

ALL FAILS

If nations of the world fail to develop friendship and tolerance, all else fails, according to Mr. Mitchell.

Reviewing the role of Rotarians in the world today, Mr. Mitchell outlined four main opportunities for members in the organization.

Rotary organizations are more than "pleasant luncheon clubs," Mr. Mitchell told members as he outlined the four opportunities.

First, is the chance to meet new friends and establish the spirit of friendship to combat the world's evil.

The speaker explained that men of all nations had contributed to world progress.

"Man expresses his friendship for mankind through service to the world," he said.

Second opportunity was described as extending the work of Rotary by expanding Rotary groups.

YOUTH SERVICE

Service to youth was stressed as a third opportunity.

Fourth opportunity mentioned by the Rotarian leader was to "stimulate interest, broadmindedness and charity in world affairs."

He reminded members that "combined efforts of right-thinking people" were needed to obtain results in world peace.

A. S. MITCHELL
... Justice first.

"Young people of the past few decades have had a raw deal in the world," Mr. Mitchell told his audience.

He pointed out that youth had been called upon to give up everything including their lives, during the past 40 years.

The Rotary president called on members to continue assisting youth organizations and clubs.

CHIVALRY NEEDED

Fourth opportunity mentioned by the Rotarian leader was to "stimulate interest, broadmindedness and charity in world affairs."

He reminded members that "combined efforts of right-thinking people" were needed to obtain results in world peace.

Farmers Urged To Support Gov't Power

Alberta farmers were asked Wednesday to vote for government-operated rural electrification, in the plebiscite which will be taken on August 17.

Officials of the three main farmers' organizations—Alberta Federation of Agriculture, Alberta Farmers' Union, and United Farmers of Alberta—issued a statement urging their members, and all Alberta citizens generally, to vote in favor of public-owned power in the rural electrification plebiscite.

It has been estimated that about 80 per cent of Alberta farmers belong to at least one of the farmers' organizations.

The statement, issued by AFU president Carl Simpson, said, "Conferring by telephone within the past few days, officials of the Alberta Farmers' Union, United Farmers of Alberta, and the Alberta Federation of Agriculture, decided to issue a statement urging all citizens, urban as well as rural, to give affirmative answer to question being submitted to the electors."

PRINTER'S INK is in Elmer Roper's blood. Alberta leader of CCF sets a dizzy campaign pace, but finds time to keep eye on things around his Commercial Printers publishing shop. Roper still holds his President's Union card.

Thin Man of Politics Leads Alberta CCF

This is the second of a series of biographical sketches on parties by Bulletin Staff Writer Jack DeLong.

Elmer Roper, veteran leader of the Alberta CCF party has a puzzling personal problem.

For Roper might well paraphrase the famous words of Winston Churchill:

"Never has one man so few talents to show for having so much so often."

Because Elmer Roper can lay claim to the title of "The Thin Man" of Alberta politics.

At 55, the CCF leader towers a state five feet, eight and one-half inches, but weighs just 155 pounds.

Estates plenty

"Can't understand why I don't on weight. I eat plenty and often," he avers.

Roper likes to console himself with the words of Shakespeare: "Vond Cassius has a lean and hungry look; he thinks too much; such men are dangerous."

He laughs at being called a long-haired radical. He has very little hair.

Perhaps the answer to Roper's personal puzzle lies in energy he burns in business, public service and political activity.

Roper is rated the hardest working political leader in the province. He's a human tornado.

His campaigning never starts and stops with elections. He's addressing meetings, the radio, or organizing on a year-round basis.

PRINTER TOO

Although heading Commercial Printers Ltd., one of the west's largest publishing houses, Roper has found time to lead the CCF.

He holds membership in the Canadian Red Cross Society, serve on the Executive Board of Governors, the Edmonton school board and the Edmonton Library board.

He holds membership in the Edmonton and Rotary Clubs.

He plays a little golf but certainly isn't bragging about his scores.

"I'm lucky to break 100," he admits.

When he's off work, and that's seldom, Roper likes to putter around in his flower and vegetable garden.

Born in Nova Scotia, he came to Calgary in 1907 where he is employed in the printing trade.

Ritchie Kiddies Feted At Picnic

Fifty-one children and 25 mothers of the Ritchie district recently gathered at the Ritchie playground to celebrate a birthday party for preschool children.

Last competitors, children's handicrafts, games and refreshments were features of the day.

Pre-school children are often given in the playground each afternoon from 2 to 4 p.m. and are given instruction in games, singing, handicrafts and dramatics.

Calgary Firm Wins Contract

The contract is for grading of the road from Hargrave to Saunderson, west of Rocky Mountain House.

DEALER IN DEATH is vermin exterminator Jack Riess, but only to thriving bugs of Edmonton. Can being opened by bane to local bug-world, contains enough lethal whiffs to kill hundreds of people. Riess has gas mask on, ready to don when he goes after such little "lovelies" as cockroaches and bedbugs.

Man With a Mask Leads War on Pesky Vermin

By HAROLD DELANY

If you have ants in your pants, or even bats in your belly, do not despair. There is a man in Edmonton who has a sure cure for your troubles.

He is not a doctor, he is not a faith-healer, and he is not the possessor of a magic wand. Neither does he manufacture cure-all pills, mixed in cement blocks.

He is simply, as Jack Riess himself put it, "a vermin exterminator."

In his 12-year war against Edmonton's minute and multi-legged inhabitants, the 30-year-old scourge of the bug world has made his military headquarters in the 2900 block 102 avenue.

Adjutant of the Riess army of fumigation, but not a frontline fighter, is Fern Riess, the pleasant, friendly, attractive wife of the commanding officer.

Together, these intrepid "mercenary" (like soldiers of other years they charge for their services) have waged an all-out war on the creeping, crawling and flying invaders.

In combatting the "vack" troops of the enemy, Riess uses DDT, hydrocyanic gas and such powerful weapons as carefully guarded army formulae handed down from his father.

Jack Riess comes from a fumigating family.

His father started the business, just after the turn of the century, in Winnipeg, and three of his sons are flourishing in his footsteps against the flourishing vermin, in Winnipeg, Regina and Edmonton.

Most effective killer of such prolific vermin as the cockroach, silverfish, bedbug and the carpet-bug, is the 48-hour fumigation with the deadly hydrocyanic gas.

WHOLE HOUSE

This work, for which Riess is bonded and licensed by the government, can be done for a whole house, or if a single article of furniture, in one of his three fumigation units in Norwood.

Only complaints are Mrs. Riess and the postman.

Fern Riess doesn't mind the chemical aura that hovers about her home and she knows, by now, that her husband doesn't inadvertently bring home the "ticks of his trade."

But she does become overwhelmed, from time to time, by the hundreds of tins, bottles and packages of insects and vermin that are brought in and mailed for identification by leery people.

The postman, harassed though he is by all manner of odd deliveries, has never felt quite so harassed as he does by the hundreds of letters he is mailed for identification by leery people.

Third, and fairly silent, member of the Riess fumigation family is "Cap," an eight-year-old springer spaniel. Although not directly quoted, it is said that Cap, because of his fine-fine state, is very much in favor of his master's trade.

It is indeed a lucky dog.

FOODS, oil, power, steel, chemical, food and milling machinery will be investigated by the widely representative British mission.

It seems certain that a visit to the oil fields will be a feature of the mission's Edmonton stay.

United Nations Having Collection Troubles

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Aug. 12.—(CP)—The United Nations disclosed yesterday it still is having trouble collecting budget assessments from some of its 15 members.

The latest United Nations financial report showed two members—Costa Rica and Paraguay—continue to owe part of their 1941 assessments and all of their assessments for 1947 and 1948.

The report showed four of the six Arab countries in the United Nations have made no payments toward their 1948 share of the U.N.'s operating costs. These are Egypt, Syria, Iraq and Yemen.

The People Not the 'Big Shots'

Intense Mr. M. J. Caldwell, talented and energetic leader of the CCF, vigorously belabors the Manning government of Alberta for having allegedly won the favor of what he is pleased to term the "50 Big Shots of Canada."

Now it is the essence of the Socialistic doctrine that the few are always persecuting and robbing the many. So the "50 Big Shots of Canada," whoever these gentlemen may be, always pop up in any CCF campaign as the foremost bogymen whose insatiable rapacity should drive the public into the welcoming arms of Mr. Caldwell and his party.

It is a good stirring story and tends to enliven any political campaign. But, like scaring the diapers off a baby with a blood-and-thunder bedtime story, it has no more application to the reality of political life in Alberta than the hectic bedtime story has to the real life of the infant.

It is disturbing and hair-raising. But it makes no sense.

What Mr. Caldwell forgets is that the fortunes of the Manning government rise and fall on the good will of Alberta people, not on the good will of a mythical group of "Big Shots."

In other words, if there is any such thing as the "50 Big Shots," the frown or smile of these elusive gentlemen might be absolutely no difference to Alberta voters. What Alberta voters are interested in is not what the Manning government does for or against the Big Shots but what the Manning government does for them.

The Edmonton Bulletin supports the Manning government in this election because it believes that government has given Alberta good sound administration over the past four years and that, alone among the parties at present, it offers the only hope of stable government for the next five.

In practically every field of endeavor, this government has added to the security and prosperity of Alberta people.

For instance, in 1938, public debt charges amounted to 51 percent of the provincial revenue. In 1948, public debt charges amount to less than 14 percent of net provincial revenue.

Alberta labor legislation is notably advanced among the labor legislation of all the provinces. Alberta has regulations covering reasonable hours of work, minimum wages, industrial standards, holidays, conciliation in disputes and many other points of advantage to labor.

Alberta's public health services are markedly progressive.

Alberta's policy with regard to natural resources is the most constructive. It causes those resources to yield a just revenue to the people of Alberta instead of lying idle and unproductive as in Saskatchewan.

All these points and many others have real meaning to Alberta people. They confer a concrete and tangible benefit upon the residents of this province.

We are not interested in the fortunes of the "50 Big Shots." But the fortunes of the common man seem to be amply safeguarded. And that is recommendation enough for the Manning government.

WELL, THE TRIAL'S OVER AND IT WAS A LOT OF FUN. THE LAWYER FOR THE DEFENSE WAS QUITE A COMEDIAN.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Well Pleased
Editor, Bulletin—I am very pleased to know that at last the city fathers have paid attention to welfare administration. Recently, not for the first time, I brought to the attention of Mr. F. Tanner how Mr. F. Drayton is starving our less fortunate people just to get off at X street.

The surplus he has accumulated last year appeased the city commissioners who did not pay attention to the number of people who starved for the superintendent's glory.

For instance, an old mother and a sick son were receiving only $8.00 per month until it was brought to my attention this spring. I asked Mr. Drayton if he would be so kind as to let me see what he was doing for them. Then he began to be merciful and gave them the first month $12.00 and then $14.00, which, in view of present high prices, is only enough on which to exist. In an unpolite manner Mr. Drayton told me that his budget is so small it will not allow for people to live.

He also pointed out to me that if we had to live on $8.00 per month, "Oh! I see," he said, "that would be as slim as that."

In regard to the South Side detention home Mr. Drayton told me that I was handling home with sick gloves. But then I brought to public attention the fact that the jail on South Side before was not even fit for a dog. As for the Superintendent? He is holding the position but not doing the job.

Ald. J. H. Ogilvie really didn't seem to care. He was the chairman of welfare or not for when I approached him on different matters regarding welfare the answer was that he was too busy. Now why should anyone take a position if they can't fulfill it?

Ald. J. H. Ogilvie was as good as an alderman as Ald. G. G. G. by now Mr. Drayton would be worth this $8.00 per month. (MRS.) JULIA KINKEL, Edmonton.

Concert Criticism
Editor, Bulletin—Last Sunday night Mr. Lee Heggie and a group of capable musicians presented a very worthwhile concert at Clarke Stadium. However, in spite of the fact that the grandstand seats were all filled, it would appear that Edmonton still has a long way to go as far as musical appreciation is concerned. There are three points I would like to make.

It is a pity that very few of the people who were present at that deal with afflictions of which the program was the extent of it. Yes, sir, Upsyde had everything.

He was obese. He had hairs in his nose. And, being a kindly fellow, he carried a small weather-vane in his hat so his friends could avoid getting to windward of him.

But the girls went for Upsyde. The ladies said:

"He's so masculine! He's so robust!"

Upsyde was an exceedingly popular man today he is doing a stretch somewhere for quadruple bigness.

And so it goes.

These ultra-nervous, overburdened and insouciantly perfect guys are never Caucasians. They become Caucasians from sheer exhaustion and chartered accounts.

News, Josephine!

And one of them, when he was heaved, turned back, and, glorified God and Jesus announcing said, "There were not ten cleanest! But there are the nine!"—Louis 17-12-12.

Driver, Please Call the Streets

A seemingly small omission, yet a source of constant complaint, is the failure of Edmonton bus drivers and street car motormen to call out the numbers of streets and avenues.

This indifference to the travelling public, whether caused by orders-from-above or lackadaisical drivers, should be corrected.

To a stranger in our city, finding a certain street is a harrowing ordeal. At each stop he must run back and forth between his seat and the driver to check on the street number.

At the Annexation Stage

The reported intention of Russia to hold a plebiscite in Romania this month to determine whether or not that country should become a member of the Soviet Union would appear to be another step in the growing restlessness among satellite nations as exemplified in the defiance of Yugoslavia's Tito.

In other words, Russia's program of domination has proceeded to the annexation stage.

A plebiscite in Romania, of course, would be no more than a farce. There is no free expression of public opinion in the country.

ODDS AND ENDS

Nay, Josephine, Men Do Not Need More Titivating

I find it mighty well time for me to write these lines. I am a housewife and I am a dame named Josephine. I write places on the feature page alongside Dorothy Dix and other sour females who have a grudge against the hairier sex.

This Josephine came to me on Tuesday with as many a piece of work as I have seen in print. It was nothing less than a flat statement that while women try to keep themselves more attractive most men are just plain WEIR.

Of course, Josephine, employing a few journalistic tricks, put all this in the mouth of a supposed correspondent who is supposed to have been in the city in season to men who grow gray windows, fall to get their hair cut and refuse to be daily dappers.

This despicable epistle concluded thus:

"Many a romance has been broken because a woman was ashamed of the way her hair looked."

Resented By Males

Now this is the kind of stuff that is resented by males of all ages and of the country to the other.

It is particularly infuriating because it comes at a time when men are really trying to get into the legitimate hair league.

Look at all the hairdressing on the market today for the beautification of the masculine!

There are more perfumes, more gels and special shampoos to make men look better.

the Streets

It is not enough to say that any driver will call out a certain street if requested. How many drivers remember, twenty blocks later, that a certain passenger had asked to get off at X street?

Even citizens who have been travelling the same line for years are discommoded by the driver's silence. It is only too easy, when travelling home in the evening, to become engrossed in the paper or day-dream past your stop.

This is an oversight that is simply corrected.

And for the convenience of the public, it should be corrected immediately.

Community Country.

The Russian anxiety to gobble up Romania is intensified by that country's strategic position geographically.

Romania lies on the north by the Soviet Union, on the east by the Soviet Union and the Black Sea, on the west by Yugoslavia and Hungary and on the south by Bulgaria.

With Romania taken right into the family, the Soviet Union would move her frontiers up against the three neighboring states in such a way that the satellite states in which discontent is most likely to appear or has already appeared.

Layman Edits Church News

Church newspapers, with rare exceptions, tend to be dull. Dull not because they have to do with religion, but because of being papers, but because they are frequently neither one thing nor the other: neither expressions of good journalism nor expressions of sound religion.

Mr. Keyserlingk, editor of the "The Ensign," a weekly newspaper that will enjoy a complete freedom of "official" church control, being the organ of an "independent" church, is setting out to serve the church with a more realistic and less formal news service.

There are many matters of politics, economics, history, morals, theology, upon which even bishops may do and contradict each other with glorious and profitable results. Such subjects, one may assume, will form the subject matter of "The Ensign's" columns. Subscribers will write and argue about what they read.

Mr. Keyserlingk is known throughout the world as a writer. He is the author of "The Ensign," a weekly newspaper that will enjoy a complete freedom of "official" church control, being the organ of an "independent" church, is setting out to serve the church with a more realistic and less formal news service.

Religion today has gained a note of realism for many for the first time. The church is no longer a purely spiritual institution. It is a part of the world, and it must deal with the world as it is.

After all, are not two of the most important of the church's duties to be a part of the world and to be a part of the world as it is? The church is no longer a purely spiritual institution. It is a part of the world, and it must deal with the world as it is.

Church newspapers do not need to be like the "The Ensign," a weekly newspaper that will enjoy a complete freedom of "official" church control, being the organ of an "independent" church, is setting out to serve the church with a more realistic and less formal news service.

Both are equally faulty. The church is no longer a purely spiritual institution. It is a part of the world, and it must deal with the world as it is.

Sylvan Chamber Heads Campaign

SYLVAN LAKE, Aug. 12.—The second annual picnic held at Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gibson's Ravenscrag Farm, culminated the first step in the better hog feeding campaign undertaken by the Sylvan Lake Chamber of Commerce.

On behalf of the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Gibson gave a welcoming address and outlined the policy.

EXPLAINED

Each thirteen farmers from the surrounding district have entered a pen of six pigs which have been identified at eight weeks by representatives of the department of agriculture. These pigs will be fed 200 pounds, marketed and graded on an advanced registered basis.

The concluding step in this campaign will be after all the hogs are marketed and their returns are in, when a banquet will be held for the contestants and at which time Mr. Curtis and other representatives of the department of Agriculture will be present.

Mr. Gibson introduced N. Curtis, Dominion Fieldman, of advanced registered board, Edmonton; Wm. Hudson, Kalmeyra, president of the Swine Breeder's Association and Alberta representative for the National Swine Breeder's Association; Fred Allen, assistant horticulturist, and E. Boake, agent, livestock breeder, J. Henderson, Red Deer, livestock breeder.

JUDGING CONTEST

The first event of the day was a judging contest by the entrants which resulted as follows: 1, E. G. Byrdston; 2, R. R. Hodgson; 3, K. Johnston; 4, R. Neimel.

Mr. Hudson judged the entries in the single hog commercial class the result being: 1, K. Johnston; 2, R. R. Hodgson; 3, E. Weims; 4, R. Neimel.

Mr. Curtis outlined "Advanced Registry," its policy, advantage and results.

The presence of these Alberta livestock men gave the farmers an excellent opportunity of discussing their problems.

Mr. Gibson had a number of his breeding stock on display.

ON LANDSCAPING
Mr. Allen gave a most interesting talk on landscaping and emphasized the importance of beautifying one's surroundings and the great pleasure derived from even a small garden.

The beautiful setting of the Gibson home on the shores of Sylvan Lake were wonderful setting for his lecture. The mass of lilacs surrounding two sides of the lawn was at its best and he commented on the arrangement of lawn, trees and shrubs.

Mr. Martin, Sylvan Lake, had a busy afternoon arranging races, and sports for the younger visitors. Great deal of credit for the success of the day goes to Jack May and his assistants, Mr. Jack Pell and Charlie Turner, Sylvan Lake, who also barbecued a pig on the grounds for the occasion.

Former Singing Star Dead of Malnutrition

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—(AP)—The body of May de Souza, world famous singer and actress of yesterday, will not be buried in a Potter's Field after all.

May, who sang her way from Chicago's busy Tenderloin district to command performances before European royalty, died Sunday of malnutrition. An obscure charity case, her body lay unclaimed in the county morgue for three days. The once-glamorous 38-year-old widow had been working as a part-time seamstress on the day she died.

Yesterday when news leaked out of her death, undertakers offered $500 to bury the body in a Potter's Field after all.

The body was taken to the George A. Kliner funeral home. There Kliner said: "If nobody pays for a fitting burial, it will be the first time since the stage in the old days. She was a lovely, clean cut woman."

Kliner said some old-time street-gangsters already had clipped in to help pay for the funeral.

Funeral services were held at the home of D. R. Bourne in Annapolis Saturday.

The late Mr. Combes was an old-timer of the Ashmont district having been residing there since 1918. He was born in England in 1862, coming to Canada in 1907 where he settled in Ontario. He was predeceased by his wife who passed away in 1909. Surviving are one son, H. W. Combes of Torquay, England and two daughters, Mrs. D. R. Bourne of Annapolis and Mrs. H. South of Medicine Hat.

Pallbearers were five grandsons of the deceased and one neighbor: Henry, William, Frank and Charles Bourne and H. Wilkinson and J. Kasper. Rev. Thackeray of Seattle officiated and interment was at the Ashmont cemetery.

Lakehead Star Figures in Leaf Puck Bargain

TORONTO, Aug. 12.—(CP)—A 17-year-old rookie left winger from Fort William, Ont., figured Wednesday in the second largest cash deal ever engineered by navigating the deal for Conny Smythe for his Toronto Maple Leafs.

Smythe declined to say just how much cash the National Hockey League's Toronto Maple Leafs paid for the rights to the services of blond Daniel Lewicki. He did say, however, the amount was more than $100,000 and that the Leafs are to get a player—yet unnamed—as well.

The cash deal ranks next to the Leafs' $550,000 transaction which brought defenseman Kim Clancy from Ottawa Senators 18 years ago in the five-year deal last season which brought Max Bentley and a rookie from Chicago Black Hawks to the Leafs for five players no cash was involved.

TRAIN AT ST. KITS
Lewicki reports to the Leafs training camp at St. Catharines Sept. 13 for a week's training and rookie prospects. After that, he may be turned out for further seasoning, either to a U.S. club or to an amateur team. In Winnipeg, he said that Brandon, Minn., is a junior A team, would like the 17-year-old youngster. He is in Brandon now.

Four clubs were in the race for Lewicki's services last week. He was called in when he reached his 18th birthday—he was in Winnipeg at the time—in 1967. The Leafs' program claiming to him reached the NHL office in Montreal one minute after he reached the league's required age for negotiations.

That was a disappointing blow to the Leafs as scout Bill Walker had watched Lewicki as a young star and had a hand in his development at Fort William. Lewicki, a shifty performer, played two seasons with the Fort William Columbus club. Last spring he joined Port Arthur Bruins as a replacement when they came east and won the Memorial Cup from Barrie Flyers.

Margarine Bee Back In Canada's Bonnet

By Bea Thrifty

You know gals... if you keep the cudgels flying... you may get your margarine yet. I know—some want it... and some don't. But I'll bet my bottom dollar, and I won't have to far down the pile, that there are far more who want it.

With the cost of living scale moving upward by leaps and bounds, items on the grocery list like... two pounds butter $1.48... make you wince.

Introduction of margarine may be effected this year for more than one reason. Over and above the cost question, there is the possibility of a shortage during late winter. To cope with the predicted shortage, supplies of butter would have to be imported... or a satisfactory substitute.

Even the dairymen are being won over to the margarine trend. This is a fair indication of the need in this country for such a better substitute.

However, there is still the 50-year-old legislative bill banning the manufacture and sale of margarine in Canada to be considered with.

Mind you, it is a question with two sides. Many people have many sound reasons for the negative and on the margarine problem.

Tails from across the border, where margarine is prevalent these austere days, take the eye of the pros and cons of the situation.

It's matter of fact I think I'll just dash off to the local creamery to get a package of the wafers for life.

Communicate from the Canadian Home Economics Association reveals that the powers that be on the nutrition field are busy at work working out a new four-point plan.

Evidently there is some way of maintaining the wheat germ oil... without increasing the spate quotient.

Nice work if you can do it men—and I'm sure you can. Incidentally, the wheat germ business can do a lot for your tired old system.

Friendliness in Girl Has Universal Appeal

Well, daughter, tastes differ even in cuties, and the arts and wiles that ravish one boy's fancy leaves another boy cold.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Baby's Readiness For Three Meals Doubtful

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

It is quite possible that the baby will put himself on a three-meal schedule before the parent considers him to be ready for it. The moment a child shows a consistent disinterest in the two-o'clock feeding, it is obvious that he is moving toward that schedule.

This may, and often does, happen as early as the fifth month with some children, and as late as the ninth with others.

It is pretty impossible to manage this type of schedule if the baby is waking up early as five in the morning. The baby who is ready for three meals will tend to sleep until six-thirty or seven, and the three meals may be served agreeably to him at 7:30 a.m., 11:30 a.m., and 5:30 p.m., or thereabouts.

The stretch between 11:30 and 5:30 is so long that, though a child may be interested in a regular meal, he will enjoy a half a glass of milk, or even a quarter glass, and perhaps a couple of cookies or crackers. This course is usually a welcome meal. This is a very good time to make use of a cup. The baby should be allowed to take it or leave it at will.

There should be no worry that the baby will lose important nourishment on so few meals. The appetite is better when the baby is turning from feelings in long, and the baby is not so tired when he is eating. When the child is on three meals it means that all the food designed for those meals should be given at one time. Too often the mother enumerates the three meals and then announces that she gives the baby between meals. Milk is a food. It demands digestion and the baby is not being given the necessary long interval between meals if he has solid food at one time and milk at another.

Ordinarily children do this themselves, shaking their heads, turning away or otherwise making it plain that they do not want any particular food.

Our letter No. 23 "Three Meal Schedule," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

WHY GROW OLD

Exercises Result In Reduction of Hips

By Josephine Lowman

Have you let a bit this summer and are you paying for it with ten extra pounds and bulges and rolls you did not have before? Here it is the twelfth of August! Before we know it, summer will be gone and we will be growing toward that schedule.

You may be going out to college or perhaps you are a housewife or a career woman. No matter which, you are going to be a lot happier in the pepped up pace of winter if you feel sleek and slim.

Then there is the problem of your fall and winter clothes, with prices like they are, you cannot afford to discard anything you had last year nor can you afford not to look your best in some older models. In other words you still have time to get into shape, favorably speaking, for the approaching line and fun and work.

With the idea of helping you prepare to enjoy the fall months as much as possible, I have been giving more space than usual to the most prevalent figure faults—the hips and the abdomen.

Another figure fault which causes woman distress is the bulge at the low hip on the thighs. This is usually accompanied by a swollen spot just above the hip. I feel sure you know what I mean!

This condition is due to a combination of muscle lump and fatty deposits. Do the following exercise: Stand erect. Contract your hip muscles. Hold white paper count slowly to 10. Relax. Continue contracting and relaxing.

After a time again contract the muscles in the same way. Do this until the contraction heat a pretty tattoo with your fists, all over the fullest part of your thighs. Do this until the skin tingles and has a raw hue. Do this on both thighs.

If you wish to have my routine of exercise for hip reduction, the fabric, slightly stretched, self-addressed envelope with your request for Letter No. 3 "Hip Exercises," to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

After sundown white fabric gloves, add a little starch to rinse water to restore little crumple to the fabric. Slightly stretched gloves will be more resistant to soil.

Share Garden Loot With Suite Dwellers

At this time of year a real Christmas glow can be yours. Do you realize that most people who have gardens cannot possibly use all. Why not be a big fellow and offer those poor apartment dwellers some of your produce (if they lack it).

Garden waste is criminal with today's high prices so have an easy conscience by passing on what you can't eat or can.

BY FAR THE BEST!

Leafy Greens Add Vitamins

Green leafy vegetables supply us with iron, calcium, copper, many of the vitamins (especially "C" when raw) plus a very good form of roughage. Taken fresh from the garden they are at their highest peak in these nutrients.

When cooking be sure to use very little water (except the cabbage family) and cook only till tender. Season simply and serve immediately.

Don't throw away those outer leaves and serve immediately.

1. Add a small amount of vinegar plus butter, salt and pepper to the greens when cooked.

2. Leave the small cauliflower (or even when you cook it, they are delicious).

3. Cook a few very small carrots with the greens, they add color.

4. Wilted lettuce is rather an odd idea. It is prepared by frying small pieces of bacon in a frying pan, sugar, salt and pepper. Place lettuce in same pan till it just wilts then toss bacon mixture over it and serve immediately.

Hamburger Harvest Eases Budget Grief

Versatile Ground Meat Shows Up For Picnic Suppers, Dinner Parties

Modern homemakers solve the problem of less tender cuts of meat by grinding them. Versatile hamburger may show up at an outdoor supper or at more formal occasions broiled on toast. Don't forget the starring role ground meat can play in casserole dishes. Cooked spaghetti or noodles can be the cofeature of a mixture of cooked vegetables. Then there is the ever popular meat loaf that can be kept in refrigerator for several days. You can cut off slices as you need them for quick lunches and lunch boxes.

Here are some new suggestions that will win praises from your family:

Massages Reduces Too-Chubby Chin

The young girl who writes to say that she is developing a double chin is panicked by the thought that it is aging prematurely. That, of course, is not the case. When a girl's chin doubles up, the blame can be put upon excess fat on the face.

The girl, or older woman who that matter, whose chin line develops folds should check up on her weight.

If the scales justify such a query, she should ask her doctor for a diet to normalize her weight.

These are of course, women whose plumpness seems to be especially concentrated around the face. When that's the reason for an over full chin, one of the best remedies at hand is regular massage.

Vigorous patting or slapping under the chin with the back of the hand is an effective means for keeping flesh more firmly braced.

Good posture, of course, which requires that a head be held in line with the spine also helps to pull up chin slack.

Trans-Canada Road Federal Responsibility

VICTORIA, Aug. 12.—(CP)—Acting premier Herbert Anson thinks the federal government should carry all of the cost of a trans-Canada highway.

He expressed this opinion in a letter yesterday to the city council. Mr. Anson explained every province has its own public works department, fully equipped and competent to deal with the job of highways necessary in that province.

"B.C.'s standard of highway construction naturally is different to that required on the prairies, and it seems to me that the national government has to do its share on a set standard in each province and on a basis on which it will subscribe to the cost of construction undertaken by each province," the acting premier said.

He personally believes the Dominion government should pay all costs of a coast-to-coast road because "it naturally comes under an engineering and accounting viewpoint as a matter of course."

Parking Meters Net City $2,055

Edmonton motorists contributed $1065.00 to city coffers during the week ending Saturday, August 7, by way of parking meters.

A further $990 was paid by motorists who had overstayed their welcome and had their cars tagged by city police.

Apparently some motorists find the parking lesson hard to learn. During the week one motorist paid his one dollar fine on six different occasions.

Another motorist was guilty of the infraction three times during the same day.

Here's Fine Point In Blackwood Bid

By William E. McKenney
Today's lesson hand is taken from Florence Osborn's new book entitled "How Your Bridge Game", published by Whitlock House of New York. This hand is No. 23 in the book, and it brings out a fine defensive point concerning Blackwood bidding.

You will note that in the second round of bidding, North bids four no trumps, and South responds with five diamonds. This is a Blackwood response, showing only one ace.

one ace. When North signs off with five spades, it can be assumed that he too holds only one ace and is afraid of the slam.

East opens the queen of hearts and declarer plays low from dummy. What should West do?

First of all West has five diamonds, and there are three in the dummy. Assuming that East has opened from a four-card suit, there would be only one heart in declarer's hand.

Furthermore, Miss Osborn points out, North has more or less indicated that he has only one ace by signing off with five spades. That ace should be the spade ace, which would leave East with the ace of clubs. If East happens to hold the ace-queen of clubs, West's correct play at trick one is to go up with the ace of hearts and shift to the eight of clubs.

The defense immediately defeats the five-spade contract, and East catches two club tricks.

Reception For Air Cadets Cancelled

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—(CP)—A reception at the Canadian embassy for 12 touring air cadets from western Canada was cancelled yesterday when the weather slowed their return from Long Island where they spent the day at Mitchell Field. Today, if the weather is favorable, the cadets will take off for Calgary with stops at Scott Air Force base in Illinois and Lowry Field in Illinois.

Harvest Pay Of $6 Daily Urged

Alberta farmers were urged Wednesday to pay harvest wages of $6 a day and throwing wages of $7 a day, plus board and meals, by the Alberta Farmers' Union. Announcement by AFU president Carl Stimpfle concurred with a statement by the Alberta Federation of Agriculture, recommending the same farm wage set-up. Last year, the general wage paid by farmers was $3.50 a day.

for harvesting and $6.50 a day for threshing, including board and meals.

Wage recommendations by the farm organizations have been adhered to in the past, and have greatly facilitated the recruiting of harvest workers from the east, Mr. Stimpfle said.

He also pointed out that when the same general wage is paid all over the province, it tends to stabilize the workers.

New wage scale compares favorably with those contemplated by Manitoba and Saskatchewan farm

CCL Demanding Control Of Prices

OTTAWA, Aug. 12.—(CP)—The Canadian Congress of Labor says yesterday it has "insisted that the government take immediate action to reestablish price control and halt inflation." Its president, A. R. Mosler, and secretary-treasurer Pat Conroy, put forward that as a letter to prime minister Mackenzie King and external affairs minister St. Laurent. The letter said the removal of price control on any commodity "has been immediately followed by an increase in its price."

New Base Metals Discovery Revealed

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Aug. 12.—(CP)—A new base metals discovery in northern Saskatchewan was disclosed Tuesday by W. James Bichan, provincial director of mineral resources. Mr. Bichan said he was flying to inspect the area 75 miles west of Prince Albert, in the Beaver Lake region. He would not hazard a guess as to possible value of the find, he said, but there were indications it might rival the workings at Flin Flin.

The find was the most promising of those reported by three government geological parties working at Beaver Lake this summer. Inspection will be made to confirm reports and drilling may follow to determine the potential of the strike.

SASKATOON.—(CP)—The Saskatchewan Camera Club presented this city's first Canadian salon of photography at an exhibition here. A total of 131 exhibits from amateur and professional photographers from coast to coast are on view.

Canadian Arctic Research Ship Sails

HALIFAX, Aug. 12.—(CP)—Canada's first Arctic research ship, the Calanus, sailed for Ungava Bay yesterday but the leader of the expedition, Dr. Max J. Dubar of McGill University, stayed behind in hospital here. Dr. Dubar, 38-year-old associate professor of biology at McGill, is suffering from an illness not yet diagnosed and will fly to the Calanus as soon as he is able. The Calanus is bound to northern waters to do research in fish and undernourishment among Eskimos.
